Land is the most critical factor in determining the cost of a new home. The Diamond State CLT (community land trust) makes housing affordable by the unique method of sharing equity gains between the CLT and the homeowner, thereby lessening the impact of land and locational factors and allowing the home to remain affordable to subsequent buyers. With 31 homes in its portfolio throughout the state, DSCLT recognizes the continuing need for more affordable housing to modest income households that will remain affordable for future generations. Further, the organization promotes the concept that the funding it receives to help make those homes affordable should be preserved over the long-term so that future generations will be able to afford home ownership. DSCLT has preserved over $2.7 million in public investment. As the real estate market recovers, housing and land prices will resume their upward trajectory increasing the affordability gap for modest income households. DSCLT is committed to working with its community partners to provide more affordable housing inventory and more affordable housing choices to those willing to work for their dream of home ownership while permanently preserving that affordability.
